THE PROBLEM · COMMUTING AND CARPOOLING TODAY

SHARING A RIDE IS HARDER THAN IT SHOULD BE

Routes matched by hand

Finding someone on your exact route means endless group chats and luck.

Costs split unfairly

Working out fuel, tolls and fares fairly is awkward on every single trip.

No trust in strangers

Riders and drivers have no easy way to know who they are sharing a car with.

Night-time safety worries

Especially for women travelling late, with no clear way to get help fast.

Unclear who is genuine

Profiles are hard to verify, so fake or unreliable users are hard to spot.

Unreliable cancellations

Last-minute drop-outs leave riders stranded and plans falling apart.
